Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines. Charles Frobman's new comedy production, Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines," which has been crowding the Walnut Street theater, Philadelphia, the past two weeks, is coming to the Lyceum theater this evening, with the important company and scenery direct from the players concerned in the cast. Not only are the people capable, but their popularity has been utilized towards insuring a kindly reception for the play. Best known of these, perhaps, is Ethel Barrymore, because of her lineage as a Philadelphia Drew-her mother, the still mourned Georgie Drew Barrymore: her grandmother, the late venerable Mrs. John Drew, of the Arch street theater, Philadelphia; her uncle, the polshed John Drew, a brilliant tamily-Drews and Barrymores alike.

Miss Barrymore is said to resemble her mother n stage action, and must, therefore, play the orimina donna with a dash. H. Rerves Smith, who made a hit in the dual role in "A Brace of Partridges," is cast for Captain Jinks, and Edwin Stevens for the solicitious ballet master, Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, Sedney Cowell, Estelle Mortimer, Lillian Thurgate, Fanny Addison Pitt, George W. Perhaps no play has attracted so much atter Perians no ploy has attracted so much atten-tion for its happy combination of inherent em-tional strength and vraisemblance of character portraiture, atmosphere and wholesome interest of story as Augustus Thomas' latest and greatest play, "Arizona," which is to be given here shortly with all the features that characterized its brilliant New York production. It is far from an easy matter to strike the exact keynote in drama which deals with that borderland to oing but slowly. A step too much and the author finds himself in the depths of the meledramatic-a step too little and it becomes simply commonplace. Mr. Thomas has so guaged his between these two undestrable extremes. He is strong and virile without ever being sensational and the story which he tells and the manner in which it is told are as fascinating as those Arizona mountain tops, which are over leading one on and whose charms increase as the view becomes more distinct, and the outlines deepen nto realities and details. THE MARKETS.

New York, Jan. 24.—The realizing of speculative profits proceeded steadily today at a resulting expense of prices. The only variation from the downward course was due to purely technical causes. Even the opening advance in prices was largely due to manipulation, which began in the London market on cabled orders from here before the New York market opened. The general steadiness in the London market helped this purpose. The opening prices of stocks here proved in most cases to be the highest. The weakness of the steel stocks which began from the opening, proved a disappointment for those speculators who had hoped that the group would assume the leadership of a new advance in prices. Yesterlay's advance proved sufficient to bring in buying orders. The coterie which bought stocks on Monday was credited with heavy selling to realize and there were large selling orders all day which were attributed to Chicago account. The reported illness of the largest individual operator in the street and who has been supposed to be long of stocks had considerable influence on sentiment. But the real basis of the reaction was the failure to attract any renewed outside speculation as clearly demonstrated by the marked decline in the activity of the market. Total sales, 764,000 shares.

The bond market was reactionary in spots in avangathy with stocks, but advanced at others. Total sales, par value, 85,076,000. U. S. new is advanced by per cent. on the last call.
